

Department of Psychiatry Faculty Excellence in Research Award

The Department of Psychiatry at Queen's University is committed to excellence in research. This award has been established to recognize and encourage overall research excellence, important research achievements, and research that has a significant impact on the field of mental health care. This award is presented annually to a faculty member in the Department of Psychiatry who has demonstrated this commitment and achievement. The award is also intended to publicize research excellence in the department and to promote research and its improvement internally and within the Faculty of Health Sciences.

All Department of Psychiatry faculty members are eligible to be considered for this award. However, only those with a research focus and a contribution within this domain will be considered for this award. The Department Chair, Division Chairs or department members may make nominations.

Nominations must be made using the attached nomination form, and e-mailed to Susan Beck (becks@providencecare.ca) by March 15, 2017.

The selection of the award recipient will be made by the Department of Psychiatry Research Committee, which is chaired by the Director of Research.

The award consists of an inscription on the Department of Psychiatry Faculty Excellence in Research Award Plaque.
