

I graduated from the Department of Psychiatry, Queen's University in June, 2016. It has been a wonderful journey from India to Canada via Kenya where I developed and nurtured my interest in psychiatry. I thoroughly enjoyed my residency in the Department of Psychiatry at Queen's where I had a lot of opportunities to develop my clinical, teaching and research skills. I found the environment of the department friendly with passionate faculty members and supportive colleagues.

Kingston is a beautiful city to live in. It is rich in history, culture, and highly praised for its attractions and cuisine. It is a perfect place where you can balance your professional and personal life.

After completing my residency, I joined the Department of Psychiatry at Queen's, where I work as a General Adult Psychiatrist. I have continued my interest in clinical work as well as scholarly activities.
